

Chart Your Path to Commerce

...and differentiate yourself through

Academic Performance | Co-Curricular Activities | Personal Characteristics

Achieve

Requirements

Before enrolling, students must complete a minimum of 54 credit hours and the following prerequisite courses:

- COMM 1800: Foundations of Commerce
- MATH 1190, 1210, or 1310: Calculus
- ENWR: First Writing Requirement
- STAT 2120: Statistical Analysis
- ECON 2010 & 2020: Principles of Economics
- COMM 2010 & 2020: Introductory Accounting
- Humanities/Engagements
- Foreign/World Language through 2020 level

Quick Tips

COMM 2010 and 2020 are offered online.

Look beyond the prerequisite courses: Take courses that interest you, and don't worry about their relationship to business—business is everywhere!

Don't worry about declaring a concentration or track. You will learn about them throughout the fall of your third year and declare them in the spring.

Stay connected! mcintireblogs.org/keepingup/

Plan It Out!

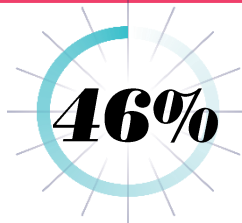

First-Year Fall Courses:

First-Year Spring Courses:

Second-Year Fall Courses:

Second-Year Spring Courses:

Explore

of McIntire students have a major or minor outside of Commerce

Learn more about McIntire's curriculum and student life by taking a tour or meeting during Ambassador Advising to get a student perspective.

Research global programs and study-abroad opportunities in order to broaden your horizons and prepare for the global workforce.

Invest in yourself by building knowledge, skills, and brainpower; discovering new passions; and satisfying your curiosities.

Identify two to three majors or minors of interest in addition to Commerce in order to diversify your liberal arts knowledge.

Get involved on Grounds and engage in opportunities outside of the classroom.

Percentage of McIntire students involved in a Commerce-related student organization

Engage

Enhance awareness of business opportunities by engaging with the University Career Center's Business Community.

Build relationships by finding or becoming a peer mentor and getting to know a professor during office hours.

Meet with your College of Arts & Sciences faculty adviser to get insights on curriculum and research opportunities.

Develop skills and personal characteristics such as leadership, teamwork, and oral and written communication skills; a global mindset; maturity; and self-awareness.

Tell Your Story

Which of your unique personal skills and characteristics distinguish you?

In 2018, about 60% of the students who applied to the B.S. in Commerce Program were offered admission.
